At the request of some of our clients, we are building a list of servers we have for sale. Many of these are still in near perfect shape, and can handle office and network needs for a fraction of the price of a new server. The ROI on these can be extremely high, and small to medium size businesses don't have to waste money. This is a very "green" way to recycle and making use of these servers for years to come help protect the environment [many of these servers use less electricity than their newer counterparts].
